Handbook Of Pharmaceutical Excipients 7th Edition 14 Category:Excipients Category:PharmacyFRANKFURT, Germany — The euro’s reversal of recent gains to a record low started on Friday when 10-year bond yields Mr. Zero got a vote of no confidence and Ireland’s government rushed in to offer budget cuts in exchange for aid. Germany, Europe’s economic powerhouse, is the continent’s top creditor. Its currency, the deutsche mark, fell against the dollar on Friday. Ireland, Europe’s small country with a reputation for weak banks and low competitiveness, is the continent’s most financially troubled nation. In its first budget since the crisis began, Ireland’s prime minister and his cabinet were forced to ask voters to approve a raft of spending cuts in exchange for bailouts from the International

Monetary Fund and the European Union. Though the prime minister, Brian Cowen, called the deal a “turning point” for Ireland, it was a sign of what investors are anticipating next: further setbacks as the crisis spreads to more countries and economic turmoil wors+$YER%2D=$X. The impact on investors is becoming increasingly clear. The yield on the 10-year note, a barometer of how investors are pricing the future of the US government debt, is now back to the levels seen in February of last year. The 10-year yield, or yield on US government debt, is at a 31-year low of 2.29%. A five-year high of 7.6% was hit earlier this year. For the last month, the yield on the 10-year note has ranged from 2.35% to 2.40%. As the Treasury sold $89.3 billion of three-year notes on Thursday at a rate of $3.52 billion a day, the market reaction was muted. Bond prices dropped after the release of the figures. The three-year yield fell to 2.15% from 2.15%. The Treasury also sold $69.4 billion of five-year notes on Thursday at a rate of $2.22 billion a day, causing a wider market reaction. The yield on the five-year note dropped to 2.75% from 2.87%. It fell below a two-year high of 2.88% hit in May. The Treasury also sold $40.5 billion of one-year notes on Friday at a 2d92ce491b
