"Shiv Kumar Batalvi is an outstanding poet in Pakistan. He is considered the leader of his literary community. His poetry also shows his nationalist feelings. The traditional literature of Pakistan has lost its originality and Shiv Kumar Batalvi is the last hope to save it. He is known for his poem Loona, a love story which is an amazing reflection of true love. In the 1960s he wrote the famous Loona, based on the Indian legend of Puran Bhagat, for which he is still known." Luna (1965), by Shiv Kumar Batalvi, is a classic of modern Urdu verse. The plot of the novel is based on the legend of Puran Bhagat, a love story of the 10th century (first half of the 14th century). Loona, a young woman, falls in love with a young man named Bhagat, who is the son of a king. The novel is filled with the bright colors of the royal courts, courtiers and dancing girls, and has strong shades of black and white. Similar to Maya (1978), a novel by Tanveer Sajjad, Loona depicts the resistance against tradition in the Indian princely states of the British era. In the initial chapters, Loona is a simple woman but eventually she meets the young Bhagat. Loona has been living as a servant in the palace of her aunt's husband, which she dislikes, and
