Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a display device, and more particularly, to an array substrate and a method for manufacturing the same. 2. Description of the Prior Art Organic light emitting diodes (OLEDs) are self-emitting diodes. In recent years, with the characteristics of self-luminous, fast response, light weight, high brightness, wide viewing angle, and so on, the organic light emitting diodes have been gradually applied to display devices. Generally, for a display device that includes an OLED, a plurality of pixel circuits is arranged on a substrate. Each pixel circuit includes a thin film transistor (TFT) and a capacitor. The TFT is operated to control the amount of current inputted into a light emitting diode of each pixel circuit, and thus the amount of light emitted by the light emitting diode can be adjusted. The capacitor can be used to store electric charges and compensate for the drift of threshold voltage of the TFT. In addition, when manufacturing a conventional OLED display panel, the TFT array substrate is formed first, then a spacer is formed on the TFT array substrate, and then the color filter substrate is provided. The TFT array substrate is fixed to the color filter substrate using a sealing material. However, in the conventional OLED display panel, the spacer is formed by a pixel defining layer and a shading layer. When the sealing material is formed to bond the TFT array substrate and the color filter substrate, it is easy for the shading layer to be detached by the sealing material because the shading layer is formed by a material with a low adhesive strength. Therefore, when the sealing material is cured, the shading layer may easily be detached from the substrate, and the yield of the conventional OLED display panel is degraded. What is the typical response from an organization when they think they are engaging in unethical behavior? What does that look like? If you're like many companies, you probably think that you are operating ethically, and 2d92ce491b
