Table Filter For Confluence

Allows you to set an option to use MACROS to set certain options for different table filter scenarios. For example, you can set a default option to show the author and the created date of the current page. This will be used if you don't specify the parameter in the filter macro to do the same. You can also set default values for your parameters in the option list. This allows you to filter your data using just a few simple clicks instead of searching in multiple options and setting every single parameter manually. This plugin was created to be easy to use, but flexible. You can use it to customize any Confluence tables to be displayed as you want, be it by using a default setting or simply by specifying the custom parameter.
