maybe you're using it already. However, you might not be aware of the exact differences between the two: The Messenger as a stand-alone application is a place where you can have meetings with others that have the same application installed. The messenger requires the presence of other people to be able to happen. A chatroom is where you can meet other people that are online and available to chat at that time. You must join a chatroom first before it will let you start a chat with others. One last thing to mention is that the messenger, unlike a chatroom, allows you to talk to more people at a time.
