Roblox is an online game platform and game creation system developed by Roblox Corporation that allows users to program games and play games created by other users. Created by David Baszucki and Erik Cassel in 2004 and released in 2006, the platform hosts user-created games of multiple genres coded in the programming language Lua. For most of Roblox's history, it was relatively small, both as a platform and a company. Roblox began to grow rapidly in the second half of the 2010s, and this growth has been accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic. Roblox is free to play, with in-game purchases available through a virtual currency called Robux. As of August 2020, Roblox had over 164 million monthly active users, including more than half of all American children under 16. Although Roblox has received generally positive reviews from critics, it has faced criticism for its moderation, microtransactions, and exploitative practices directed toward children. The initial release was said to be a beta release. By January 2004, it was common for players to make each other enjoy videos with online game titles such as Tekken, Super Mario Bros., Super Smash Bros., and Warcraft, which used a button mapping similar to that of Paintball. By mid-2004, a lot of artists documented the sport on the Internet, possibly the first of its kind in the manner of net art. Among the earliest was a video from Michael Sadilek, a sport fanatic. Sadilek uploaded a video of himself playing and enjoying his favorite online game, Risk of Rain. Another was from Mark Mason, a Microsoft Achievements artist, and it included a three-minute film called "Xbox: The Movie". In late 2004, a gaming site and video gaming portal, IGN, launched, and that had a gaming competition

It sits on the shelf above the toaster (preferably on a shelf that goes straight down, not angled) with its metal shelf extension right underneath it. It plugs into the toaster via an electric socket and, while it only works with Nespresso machines, it can be used with any regular toaster as well. If you start to notice that your toasts are looking a little flaky, just give the Smart Toast a quick tap and it will automatically grab the best slice and finish off the rest of the batch. To top that off, it has smart learning technology and can make "toast suggestions" based on how many slices of bread are in your basket. You can connect the Toast to your phone via Bluetooth so you can set it to your favourite toast toppings. Alternatively, you can pair it with any Alexa-enabled smart speaker to make your toast ideas a reality. Price: £12.99. Available in September 2019 10. The design may look a little odd, but it's useful: it clips to a pocket in your jeans to protect it from nicks, and also stops it getting split and ruining any of the bread. Price: £29.99. Available now 11. Klix-E-Toast Automatic Double Toaster If you're the kind of person who loves to make their toast
